

Catalunya Goes to Hong Kong

14 Feb 2013

Following the success of Catalunya Singapore (above), the contemporary Spanish restaurant will soon open a sister outlet in Hong Kong. Scheduled to launch in late March 2013, Catalunya Hong Kong will be located in Wanchai's picturesque Morrison Hill area. Leading the restaurant's opening is group executive chef, Alain Devahive Tolosa, who has honed his craft at a number of Michelin star restaurants in Spain and France, including the famed El Bulli. Diners at Catalunya Hong Kong can look forward to some of the signature dishes from its restaurant in Singapore, including Lobster Rice, Roasted Suckling Pig with Lemon Puree, as well as popular tapas items Spanish Bombas (potato and beef croquette balls) and Truffle Bikini (grilled ham and cheese sandwiches with truffle oil).
