2013 is an exciting year for foodies. The list of new openings is getting more exciting by the day. New York's pizza sensation "Motorino" is officially opening next week, followed by Singapore's "Catalunya" opening in Wanchai later this month. Hailing from Japan is "Gonpachi", tentatively opens in the 3rd quarter of 2013. Among all new openings, WOM has received confirmed sources that legendary French pastry chef Pierre Hermé is opening his first Hong Kong luxury pastry boutique. Opening date is set tentatively in June and the flagship will set foot at the ifc Mall. It looks like Hong Kong will finally get its Ispahan fix soon.
